LAWRENCE RECEIVES $100,000 GIFT FROM ALUMNUS

Plans Set For
May Festival"Faust" and Orchestra Concert
On Program

The committee on arrangements for the annual May music festival has completed plans for the 1929 production, which will open with Gounod's well known opera "Faust", to be sung in concert form in Memorial chapel on Friday evening, May 3, and followed by an orchestra concert on Sunday afternoon, May 5, to be given by the 35-piece Lawrence Little symphony under the direction of Percy Fullinwider.

The program for the May 3 concert for the music festival is unique for two reasons: first, because a grand opera sung in concert form is a new departure in choral presentations, and second, because the exceptional quality of voice talent at the conservatory this year makes it possible to give Appletonians an almost completely Lawrence production. With but one exception all of the soloists are drawn from the conservatory.

Fred Wise, tenor, of Chicago, who scored his most recent local triumph in the "Messiah", will carry the title role of Faust, opposite Gertrude Farrell, soprano, of the conservatory voice faculty, as Marguerite. J. Raymond Walsh, baritone, will appear as Mephistopheles, and Dave Secular, '30, as Valentine, while Helen Mueller, contralto, of the conservatory voice faculty, will sing the dual role of Seibel and Martha.

The schola cantorum, a student chorus of approximately 200 mixed voices, is rounding into shape at weekly practices under the direction of Dean Carl J. Waterman, and will furnish the choral background. The music of "Faust", which is of widespread popular appeal, presents many magnificent choruses, chief among which are those of the church and prison scenes in the fourth and fifth acts. The famous "Soldiers' Chorus" will be sung by the men's concert glee club.

The orchestra concert on the 5th, under the direction of Percy Fullinwider of the conservatory faculty, marks the only formal concert appearance of the Lawrence Little symphony this year. A program of standard overtures and descriptive numbers will be varied by solo groups by Oscar Hoh, violinist, and J. Raymond Walsh, baritone.

Student tickets for "Faust" may be obtained at the college office and reserved at Belling's drug store. No admission will be charged for the Sunday afternoon concert, but a silver offering will be taken.

Deadline Set

Grades for the second six weeks of the second semester of the current academic year are due in the office on or before Saturday, April 27, it was announced recently by Olin A. Mead, college registrar.

English Club Hears
Paper On Masfield

"John Masfield", the English writer, was the subject of a paper read by Genevieve Barr, '30, at a meeting of the English club held Friday afternoon at Hamar house. A number of poems from "Sea Ballads" were read by the speaker besides some selections from the author's long narrative poem, "The Everlasting Mercy."

W.S.G.A. Officers Attend
National Convention

Helen Bergmann, '30, president of W.S.G.A., and Ellen White, '32, left Sunday evening for Norman, Okla., where they will attend the national convention of W. S. G. A. at the university of Oklahoma from April 16 to 20.

Three hundred coeds and 15 deans of women, representing 138 schools are expected to attend the conference where problems of co-educational life, campus conduct with emphasis on student government, together with other activities of the association, will be discussed by speakers from both student and faculty groups. Miss Mildred Clark, Oklahoma City, national president, will preside.

Juegos Florales Is Held; Award Prizes

Margaret Eberlein, '30, Named Winner of First Prize

Juegos Florales, annual festival, presented at Lawrence Memorial chapel last Thursday night by the students of Spanish, culminated in the awarding of prizes to three winners in the literary contest conducted by the Spanish department.

Margaret Eberlein, '30, won first prize for her Spanish short story, "El Hijo de Maguey", which in English means "The Son of the Maguey", a story based on an old Mexican legend. Miss Eberlein received the privilege of naming the queen of the festival, and of having her name engraved on a bronze vase which goes each year to the winner of first prize. She was given also the "flor natural", a perfect rose symbolizing the flowering of the spirit, and a book of Spanish legends.

Second prize, a porcelain vase from Seville, went to Florence Olbert, '29, for her essay on "Manuel Gutierrez Najera", a Mexican writer. Meredith Bandy, '30, was awarded a Mexican coin purse as third prize, for the best translation into English of a selected piece of Spanish prose. The piece chosen was "El Velo de la Reina Mab", or "The Veil of Queen Mab", by Ruben Dario.

The program opened with a selection by the freshman quartet, composed of Phoebe Nickel, cello, Janet Carneross, first violin, Eleanor Voecks, second violin, and Ramona Hueseman, piano.

Next came the entrance of Ruby Brown, '29, queen of the festival, and her court of honor. The court included Florence Olbert, '29, Meredith Bandy and Evelyn Stedman, both '30, and Rubie Diebert, '31.

Ralph Coggeshall, '29, taking the part of a troubador, recited an old Spanish ballad to the queen. He also announced each number of the program. Following the ballad David Secular, '30, sang "Noche Serena", a Mexican folk song. A chorus of 20 girls, dressed in costumes of Spain, sang a group of Spanish songs. Clara Bunde, '31, gave a Spanish dance.

A play, "La Flor de la Vida", was then presented, with Irma Molzow, '32, taking the part of Aurea, and Arnold Sieg, '32, that of Cellini. The theme of the play was the devotion of Aurea and Cellini to the ideal that they saw in each other—the poetry of life and the spirit of adventure.

Presentation of the prizes by the queen concluded the program.

Mary Classon, ex '31, Madison, spent the week end with friends at Russell Sage hall.

Treasurer's Books Turned Over To R. J. Watts

By Howard Klatt

A solution of the financial problem of the Lawrence Athletic association was finally found after a year of study of its difficulties when the board of trustees of the college at its last meeting decided, upon request of the athletic board, to treat the physical education department as a part of the college, similar to any other department.

It remained only for the athletic board of control to pass upon this, which it did in a meeting last Wednesday. This action means that direction of the athletic association's finances will be in the hands of the college business office and it also means turning over of the treasurer's books to R. J. Watts, business manager of the college.

During the past three years it became increasingly evident that the department's income was not sufficient to take care of the expanding athletic program. Rather than ask the members of the all college club to pay a larger fee or to withdraw the college's membership in the Midwest conference or to greatly curtail intramural and other sports, the board of control requested the administration for some such solution as was effected.

This expedience does not mean that the debt will be disposed of in one lump sum. With the larger working capital thus afforded by the trustees' backing, it is expected that the debt can be paid off gradually, while also maintaining the present athletic program. The board of control will continue to function as before, except in matters of finance.

Ormsby Matron For 22 Years,
Miss King Was Loved By All

Miss Jessie King

Kalamazoo, Mich.

For twenty-two years Miss King was the loved and respected matron of Ormsby hall. Her services to the college in that capacity and her influence upon the students with whom she came in contact can hardly be adequately expressed. She was not only the person who saw that the material needs in a dormitory were supplied, but to the girls of Ormsby hall was a friend in whom they found sympathy, understanding, and an interest in their welfare as long as they remained in college. Students who were acquainted with her and experienced her affection, noted that it remained whether they continued to live at Ormsby or took up residence in some other dormitory.

At the opening of the school year Miss King was suddenly taken ill. During her stay at St. Elizabeth's hospital she was continually surrounded by flowers sent to her by students

Stage Is Set
For 'Heimat'

To Present Play At M.E. Church Tomorrow

By Dorothy Dana

The work of the production staff on "Heimat", by Sudermann, has been completed and the play will be presented in the small auditorium of the Methodist Church on tomorrow evening.

Formerly, students of the German department have presented only light one act comedies. This year they will present a serious four act drama which is a higher type of play and will be a more finished production.

All of the members of the cast have had previous experience, and they have spared no effort to produce the best possible interpretation of this drama, which has had phenomenal runs in the United States and in European cities.

Although "Heimat" is essentially a serious drama, it contains a number of comic scenes in which Sudermann ridicules militarism, bigotry, and social hypocrisy.

In addition to a large number of successful dramas, Hermann Sudermann has written numerous novels, some of which are among the best in modern German literature. Two of these novels, "Frau Sorge", and "Es War", have been filmed and are being widely shown in the United States and in Germany.

Sudermann died last November at the age of 71. The presentation of his masterpiece, "Heimat", is in honor of his memory.

Donates Fund

Money To Be Used For Research Work

The establishment of a research fund of $100,000, a gift of Herbert E. Miles, Los Angeles, graduate of Lawrence in 1882, to be used for the promotion of research in educational problems and in the humanistic studies at Lawrence, has been announced by ex-Senator W. H. Hutton, New London, chairman of the Lawrence development council. Mr. Miles, a former Wisconsin manufacturer, was a member of the college board of trustees, and he recently gave the college a collection of oil paintings which are now displayed in the Ormsby parlors.

In making the proposal to establish the fund with his gift of $100,000, Mr. Miles said, "I have watched Lawrence for many years, first as a student, then as a trustee, and finally as a layman. I want to have a part in the development of Lawrence and to aid it to continue to grow and to broaden. The income from the fund will help to provide money for the expense of travel and study of future and present needs and the constantly better way of shaping its general policy."

"I would like the fund to be used," continued Mr. Miles, "in the spirit that has been mine from childhood, namely, striving for a better tomorrow for the world and for myself. Investment in research has brought great wealth to the country. In my personal educational and public experience, I have seen the deplorable lack of financial assistance available to many investigators in carrying on research projects in social practice and legislation and in the humanistic studies. Often creditable or promising bits of research by professors and others commenced with their own money in their spare time have been lost because of their financial inability to continue and because no financial aid was available."

In accepting the proposal, President Henry M. Wriston stated, "Members of the Lawrence faculty have made notable research contributions in the humanistic studies. As, without the encouragement of assistance, projects of such a nature have been launched at great personal sacrifice, more significant ones are sure to follow as a result of the establishment of the Herbert E. Miles fund for their support. The results of such a fund are cumulative. In the course of years, it should make possible a constant and finally an impressive contribution to education and a 'better tomorrow'."

"In my estimation, this will have a stimulating effect and will be an incentive to more creative work among the members of our faculty and in (Continued on Page 3)

THE GIFT

Herbert E. Miles, '82, has joined the long list of public spirited alumni of Lawrence college who have contributed a monument to themselves in the educational world. His one hundred thousand dollar fund for the aid of research work in the field of educational problems and humanistic studies is a great thing in the history of Lawrence college and in the future his name will loom large on the honor roll of the institution.

The purpose of the fund has been explained as one to defray expenses of research work in the field of education, especially in the more liberal studies of history, sociology, languages, literature, and in fact every branch of education but the hard and fast sciences. The ultimate aim, the arrival at a "better tomorrow" for Lawrence college, and for the world, will stand as the testimonial to the far-sightedness of the donor. What success this fund will enjoy is at present impossible to ascertain. With Lawrence the only college in the middlewest where such a fund exists the future looks promising, and there can be no doubt that the college will take full advantage of it.

ASSUMPTION OF THE ATHLETIC DEFICIT

The decision of the board of trustees to assume the debts of the athletic department and put the financial affairs of the department in the hands of the college is a momentous event in the history of Lawrence athletics and goes a long way toward solving what has been a great problem. Aside from clearing up the debt with which the department has been saddled the transfer means essentially that Lawrence athletics will no longer be left to shift for themselves but will be financed by the college, the same as is any other department of the institution and places athletics on the same solid foundation which they enjoy in sister colleges in the Midwest and Little Four conferences.

This is bound to have an important effect, just as it was an inevitable occurrence. It is generally recognized that athletics in the small college can no longer be self-supporting when competing with the large universities, and from now on the athletic department will be able to attend to the work for which it was created, the direction of a comprehensive program of athletics, instead of worrying over seemingly insurmountable financial responsibilities. The result is bound to be beneficial.

Vote For Two Trustees On

Have Eight Nominees Now; To Elect Soon

By Francis Nemacheck

The annual election of the alumni candidates for membership on the Lawrence college board of trustees is now in process. This year eight former Lawrentians are listed on the ballot of nominees which is being sent out to members of the college alumni association. From the four receiving the greatest vote, two trustees will be selected.

As is the policy of the school, four members of the alumni group are chosen annually and presented to the board of trustees, which elects from these candidates two trustees for terms of three years. The graduate body of the school is represented on the board at all times by a group of six trustees, two of which are selected annually.

Nominees from which the alumni body must select four representatives include Ruth Harwood (Mrs. S. F.) Shattuck, '06, Neenah, whose husband is a prominent official in the Kimberly Clark paper company; Roy Cliff, '07, Sebring, Ohio, treasurer and general manager of the French China company, both of whose terms as trustees expire this year and who have been renominated; Dudley Fowler, '14, Minneapolis, Minn., general manager of the northwest district for the F. W. Woolworth company; Dr. Harry Heidman, '12, Sheboygan, prominent physician and surgeon; Grace Bennett, '04, Oak Park, Ill., dean of girls at the Oak Park high school; Norman Richardson, '02, Chicago, dean of the Presbyterian graduate training school; Dr. David H. Stevens, '06, Chicago, assistant to the president of the university of Chicago and member of the university English department; and Elizabeth Wilson, '90, Appleton, a retired Y.W.C.A. worker, who for many years was executive secretary of the national Y.W.C.A. board.

Contributions

TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Sir:

I heartily back the idea for the illumination of the dome of main hall. It has seemed queer to a number of students that such a fine opportunity to beautify our campus and to increase that proudness of our Lawrence which we call college spirit has been allowed to pass unnoticed. Any one seeing the lighted dome at Beloit and realizing the pride the downstaters must take in it cannot help but realize that we are failing to make the most of what we have here.

As to expense, Beloit, with four simple reflectors such as are used on billboards, lights its tower very well. The lights there are left on until midnight or one o'clock. I venture to say that two men could easily install the equipment needed here in a day. But it isn't a question of whether we can afford to do it, it's a question of whether we can afford not to do it. The beauty of our campus, tradition and memories form one phase of the appeal to prospective Lawrentians. We are ignoring the best item of all—that of a beautiful, serene and illuminated dome standing watch over a tradition-rich campus. The picture is an invaluable one to us—can we afford to let the opportunity slip—And more, can we afford to let another college take the upper hand where we could, with a little effort, be on a par or above it in that respect?

Do you agree with me thus far on the policy of using our opportunities to the best possible advantage? Then

Short Sport Spasms

Day after day the weather man brings snow, rain, and cold at inconvenient times, adding to the cares of track men and coaches, spring football squads and coaches, and last, but not least, the noble profession of sports writers.

The weather failed to hamper the swimming team, however. The boys stepped out, or whatever it is they do in swimming, and took Coach Ott's Kaukauna aquatic hopes to town, for their initial victory of the year. The all campus meet held the night before evidently was good practice. (Both meets, by the way, were held indoors.)

All the colleges of the Little Four are reporting strong teams for the swiftly approaching track season, statements which will be put to the test at Madison next Saturday. Carroll, second place winners of the state meet last year, have lost two men from that squad and have a flock of eligible frosh who uncovered some good ability last year. Beloit appears very optimistic, stating that she has the strongest team in years. While Ripon is not saying much, she can be counted on to present a team that will be in the running.

Lawrence is not bowing down submissively before these reports, nor has she any need to do so. The competition will undoubtedly be stiff, but Denney's squad will not put forth any competition approaching to limpness. We're all glad to see the other teams coming along so nicely, but they can't all take the pennant and we may have to in order to stop argument. As a matter of fact, we have every intention of doing so and will probably insist on it.

Milwaukee Lawrence Men Organize Club

A new alumni group, known as the Milwaukee Lawrence Men's club has been established and officers for the new organization were chosen at a meeting held last Tuesday evening at the Milwaukee Athletic club. Ernest Wittuhn, '14, was elected president; Don Dyer, '20, vice-president; Howard Bredlow, ex-'27, secretary, and Merritt Mitchell, '23, was made treasurer.

Three directors were chosen for the organization. They are: Attorney William Doll, '20, Attorney Arnold Otto, '11, and Carl Streissguth.

About 45 men were in attendance at the first meeting and it was decided at that time to hold regular monthly meetings. This new organization corresponds to a similar group for Lawrence women known as the Milwaukee Lawrence Women's club.

Weatherman Is Track Nemesis

Denney Hopes For Week Of Work On Field

Track men were rather unjustly treated when last week's snow came along and didn't leave as quickly as it should have. However, the men were able to get out on the field yesterday, and Coach A. C. Denney hopes that the week of outdoor practice will be beneficial enough to put the men in condition for the meet next Saturday.

The opening meet will be held at Madison Saturday, and Lawrence people can expect good results from their men, even considering the lack of outdoor experience this spring. Most of the men who will take part are lettermen, or have had previous experience, so the enforced delay will not do as much harm as it might under some circumstances. The earlier part of this week will see some intensive training on the part of all the men, as their work during the first few days will probably have some effect in determining the personnel of the team Coach Denney will take to Madison for the week end.

Ex-Senator Hatton, in announcing the gift, emphasized the fact that this fund provides for the establishment of one of the first such foundations for any college of liberal arts in the middle west, and stated that it was the intention of the trustees to encourage the establishment of other foundations with a view to increasing the teaching effectiveness of the college.

"Mr. Miles is doing a great deal to help in the development of Lawrence college," concluded Senator Hatton. "Research in the humanistic studies eventually will be followed by progress. Real progress lies in the power to recognize and use that which will result in human well being and the courage to recognize and dispense with the obsolete."

Mr. Miles was born at Waupaca, Wisconsin. He attended Lawrence from 1878 to 1882 and received his degree of M.A. here. After graduation he attended Harvard for one year. In 1884 he entered the manufacturing business in Racine. From the rank of

Cast Of Play Is Announced

Snyder, '29, Given Role of
"Mr. Pim"

The cast for "Mr. Pim Passes By", a three act comedy by A. A. Milne, which will be presented in the Lawrence Memorial chapel on Thursday, May 16, was announced yesterday by Miss Lucile Welty, director of the play.

Died Snyder, '29, has been cast for the character role of Mr. Pim, an un-offensive and supposedly harmless absent-minded old man. The part of George Marden, a narrow-minded country gentleman, will be played by William McLaughlin, '29, while the female leads will be taken by Bernita Danielson, '29, as his wife, Olivia, and Magdalyn Bohr, '28, as Dinah, his niece. Herbert Ungrodt, '28, will play the part of Brian Strange, artist friend of Dinah. Helen Tonskemper, '29, will be Lady Marden, and Nellie Chamberlain, '29, Anne, the maid.

All the members of the cast have had previous dramatic experience either at Lawrence or other schools. Bernita Danielson played the part of Olivia in the Sunset production of "Twelfth Night" and McLaughlin and Ungrodt played in the recent costume play, "Richelieu". Snyder took parts in the "Romantic Age" and "Charm School" while Helen Tonskemper, Magdalyn Bohr, and Nellie Chamberlain all had extensive dramatic experience before coming to Lawrence.
